My dear

I got Mr Butler
Williams to work out some tables, on Belgian Commu-les, to show the rate at which agricultural stocks as well as goods & passengers might be carried by railway, & ratios of reduction of charges with extension of traffic. The diffusion of statistics lament changes, over extending maps of consumption or production, will be found to be a most important economical topic. I think you will find them tables of interest.

I propose

wanting upon your tomorrow morning with Lord Chington to speak with you on the necessity of doing something to stop the mob of water bills which against all principle, & the recommendations of the health of many Lampmen are on their way into, & through the House of Lords.

I remain your Lordships very faithful servant
