Recently, my child's appearance is strange...

He/she seems to be anging out with a bad older student...

There are consultation services regarding drugs.

For guardians of children

Say "No, Absolutely No!" to Drug Abuse

To protect children from drug abuse

The issue of the danger of drug abuse now does not just affect children prone to delinguency.

Checklist to protect children from drug abuse

About the environment surrounding your child

- Your child is allowed to have a smartphone or cellphone.
- Your child is allowed to use a PC connected to the internet.
- Your child hangs out with junior high school and senior high school students. Or you do not know much about his/her friends.

About your child himself/herself

- He/she has begun coming home late.
- He/she wants money for unknown reasons.
- He/she no longer wants to eat meals with the family.
- When you make eye contact, he/she stops talking.

Please be careful if you checked V even just one box.

If you want to know the reason, see here.

There are many dangers surrounding children!

Dangerous invitations threaten children in many different ways. Children today are familiar with smartphones and computers. If they just connect to the internet, they can easily buy dangerous drugs.

For prevention before it starts...

In order to protect against the danger of drug abuse by children before it starts, it is important for guardians to be careful everyday and closely watch over their children.

Raise your children to value themselves, keep away from bad invitations, and be able to refuse themselves if they receive an invitation

Also, please tell them to stay away from dangerous places and to quickly run if they sense danger.

An increase in cannabis crimes!?

Cannabis (marijuana)

The number of people arrested for cannabis, which reached its peak in 2009 and had been decreasing, has been increasing in recent years, particularly with increasing arrests of minors and people in their 20s.

There are concerns about the spread among young people, such as arrests of high school students for violation of the Cannabis Control Act in Ibaraki Prefecture and Okayama Prefecture in 2016, and in Nagasaki Prefecture in 2017.

Although there is a stream of incorrect information such as "cannabis has no effect on the body" and "cannabis doesn't cause dependence," in reality cannabis is an illegal drug that affects the brain and causes various problems.

If cannabis is abused, the person's perception changes, they lose the ability to concentrate, and have emotional instability. In addition, if the abuse is continued, it causes a condition of not having motivation to do anything (disorder of motivation). lowered cannabis-induced psychosis, and more, and makes the person become unable to adapt to life in society. Drug abuse in minors in particular greatly affects development of the mind and body. Cannabis absolutely must not be used.

What are dangerous drugs?

Dangerous drugs are sold under names such as "legal herbs," and in addition to causing health damage and even death to users, there are also many reports of examples involving other people such as incidents causing injury and fatalities and traffic accidents.

Due to legal reform in 2014, it is illegal to possess, use, purchase, or transfer "dangerous drugs" that are designated drugs, and street stores were destroyed due to the strengthened regulation. However, they are still being sold on the internet and

Representative drugs that are abused

Drugs that are mainly abused in Japan are cannabis and dangerous drugs, as well as stimulants, MDMA, psychotropic drugs, thinners (organic solvents), and more. Abuse of stimulants causes hallucinations and delusions, and consuming large quantities can lead to death. MDMA causes vision and hearing changes, there are cases of it harming people such as with anxiety and insomnia, and continued use causes people to fall victim to mental agitation. Psychotropic drugs have medical uses, but abusing them causes mental and health impediments. For all of these drugs, even if you stop using them, your dependence on them will remain.

In addition, neural circuits control humans' actions and emotions, but drug abuse destroys neural circuits. This causes respiratory arrest, hallucinations, and impaired consciousness, and as a result can cause people to harm others and even lead to the user's death.
