

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A LAST WORD.

BUT I must close somewhere, and it is at this point.

I have set myself to record a medical life from the medical side of my own life, not in any sense as a model picture, but in the earnest hope of the day when men of physic shall find in the study of the natural body the grandest work the human intellect can command.

